Re: Make Up Work and Release to Attend CEO Space Teen Entrepreneur Retreat Week

To Whom It May Concern:

The student bringing you this request and their parent/guardians are requesting the school to release the student for one week from regular school programs in order to attend the CEO Space Teen Free Enterprise Accelerated School Training (FEAST). The student will be engaged in an arduous curriculum program developed to foster Entrepreneurial skills, including concept development, business planning, marketing, strategic alliance building, communication skills, team building, anger management and conflict resolution training. This training develops study habits beneficial to the student in the long term.

The CEO Space Teen FEAST retreat week is a resident training school. Over 18 years, 82% of our FEAST graduates own a business later in their lives rather than simply working in a business. The curriculum provided is endorsed by www.yourhomework.com (largest parent-teacher website in America with a million users per day) and by the Consortium for Entrepreneurship Education. Short format "click and play" films related to the FEAST education program appears on the CEO Space website, www.CEOSpace.NET.

Each student is supervised by M.A. and Ph.D. trainers providing training on topics set forth above. Your support for the student taking on added educational responsibilities is appreciated. CEO Space has approved the student attendance and subsidizes the student tuition. We request your faculty and administration team approve a one week field trip for Entrepreneur Education with any make up work assigned to the student to keep their present educational program current.

Dr. William Skilling, a Michigan Superintendent, Nick Sheltron High School, reports, on the CEO Space website, that student FEAST graduates evidence long term improved study habits derived from attending the FEAST intensive training. The education will include lesson plans, quizzes and examinations, and will be rigorous with graduation on the weekend. Thank you for your permission to cooperate in further educational development of your student.

Sincerely,
Cheryl Brenner
